

Study Questions

1. What role should the public play in decisions over technical issues that are wont to be dominated by stakeholders with vested interests?
2. What role should data play in public consultations? Should bureaucrats regulate based on theories of imagined discrimination?
3. Did TRAI do enough to “consult” the millions of Indians who would have used net neutrality violating initiatives? How should a regulator commence a consultation process that addresses the concerns of all those affected, not just those with the means and resources to be heard?
4. Should network neutrality be enforced at all costs with zero exceptions? Are there acceptable halfway measures such as case- by- case neutrality violations?