Political Parties, Representation, and Governance in the 21st Century

Friday, November 2 – Saturday, November 3, 2018
Stanford University
William Perry Conference Room, 2nd Floor, Encina Hall

AGENDA

Friday, November 2

8:30-9:00  Breakfast
           Welcome

9:00-10:30 Panel 1: How did we get here? Assessing strength and weakness
           Richard Katz, Johns Hopkins University
           Robin Kolodny, Temple University
           Didi Kuo, Stanford University
           Chair: Anna Grzymala-Busse, Stanford University

---       Coffee Break       ---

10:45-12:15 Panel 2: Party organization in Europe
              Sheri Berman, Barnard College
              Susan Scarrow, University of Texas
              Daniel Ziblatt, Harvard University
              Chair: Francis Fukuyama, Stanford University

12:15-1:15  Lunch

1:15-2:45  Panel 3: Comparative perspectives on party systems
           Allen Hicken, University of Michigan
           Noam Lupu, Vanderbilt University
           Anna Grzymala-Busse, Stanford University
           Chair: Maya Tudor, Oxford University, CASBS

---       Coffee Break       ---
3:00-4:45 Panel 4: Changing party organization in the United States
Ray la Raja, University of Massachusetts – Amherst
Daniel Schlozman, Johns Hopkins University
Lily Geismer, Claremont-McKenna College
Sam Rosenfeld, Colgate University
Chair: Nate Persily, Stanford Law School

Saturday, November 3

9:00-9:30 Breakfast

9:30-11:15 Panel 4: Hyper-partisanship and governance
Alexander Hertel-Fernandez, Columbia University
Liliana Mason, University of Maryland
Julia Azari, Marquette University
Lee Drutman, New America
Chair: Larry Diamond, Stanford University

11:30-12:30 Lunch and Concluding Panel: How do we strengthen parties?